

CONYNGHAM HALL BUSINESS CENTRE

Conyngham Hall Business Centre offers unique fully serviced office accommodation set within the grounds of a beautifully refurbished Grade II* listed building and 70 acres of stunning parkland next to the River Nidd in Knaresborough.

HERITAGE

The Hall has a rich heritage dating back to Tudor times when it was originally constructed as a private residence for the Coghill family in 1442. At the end of the eighteenth century the Hall was rebuilt by renowned architect John Carr and over decades has been added to many times. Its last private occupier was Sir Harold Mackintosh, the Halifax Toffee Magnate, who vacated in 1942.

In 1995 the hall and stable block were converted and opened as a business centre. Recently the Hall has undergone another major refurbishment scheme. Whilst retaining its many period features it now offers all the amenities expected of modern 21st century serviced office accommodation.
